

This programme aims to deliver to students multifaceted tools and cross-functional expertise in accounting, taxation and financial management. It prepares future financial managers, management accountants and auditors for professional accounting and corporate finance job positions. In this Master, they will deal with the complex issues of international accounting, integrated financial reporting and sustainability accounting.

Whether graduates are going to join a multinational, a public administration or a sole trader business upon graduation, they will technically be prepared to create an environment that maximises business potential and reduces risk-taking behaviour.

Making the decision to study in Rennes School of Business was easy after learning about the School's international outlook and the demographics of the City of Rennes, which is largely populated by students from different continents of the world and with many higher institutions of learning. While living in Rennes I also discovered a peaceful and serene environment - the size of the city is perfect for its population and basic amenities, making for an ideal student life".
